DETAILS

Congress Innsbruck is located in the city centre right next to the Imperial Palace. It hosts national and international symposia and congresses for up to 2.000 people.

SCOPE FOR SUCCESS

Anyone entering Congress Innsbruck finds himself in a building full of facets and contrasts: Exposed concrete meets historic masonry from the 16th century. Contemporary artwork by local artists meets glittering Swarovski crystals. Wood paneling on oversized hand-knotted carpets. Large-scale landscape paintings on green serpentine stone. State-of-the-art congress technology on vintage designer sofas.

Congress Innsbruck, with its 15 halls - first and foremost the impressive Dogana, built as a ballroom in 1572 - is a congress center that leaves no one untouched. It is a bit retro and vintage, which makes it really cool once again. It includes 450-year-old components, is rich in history, but also contemporary. It is a little bit of everything - full of facets, scope for thought and play - without serving a single cliché. Its architecture and contrasts are exciting - It is a place in which exchange is not only possible, but encouraged and demanded.

Here, everything seems to be in a constant flow, just like the Inn River, which flows not far away. A house that people talk about and becomes an inspiration in itself - a place full of scope, new perspectives, insights and findings.

ALPINE. URBAN. FUTURISTIC.
